Profile

I'm web-developer with 6+ years of experience some of which I have dedicated web-developing on Shopify. And I continue to develop and improve my skills til this day. So, throughout my experience I can say with absolute accuracy that every problem has a solution. One of the most essential points for me is that the decision should be developed and made individually, so that it harmonizes with the overall concept of the site. And I successfully cope with these tasks, in addition, qualities such as responsibility, dedication, honesty and competence allow me to notice some mistakes and correct them qualitatively. And of course, all this is limited by the deadlines that need to be met and I have no problems with that.
